FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

VIS VIRE GROUP, INC.,

Plaintiff,

-against-

ENDONOVO THERAPUETUICS, INC., AND ALAN COLLIER,

Defendants.

Civil Action No.: CV-16 0470

AFFIDAVIT OF
ALAN COLLIER IN SUPPORT OF OPPOSITION TO ISSUANCE OF PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

ALAN COLLIER, being duly sworn, deposes and says the following under penalties of perjury:

1. I am the Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of the Board of Directors of ENDONOVO THERAPEUTICS, INC. (hereinafter referred to as "ENDONOVO").

2. We are both named Defendants in the within action.

3. I submit this Affidavit on behalf of Defendant ENDONOVO and myself in Opposition to the pending application by Plaintiff seeking a temporary restraining order and thereafter a preliminary injunction. The allegations made against ENDONOVO are false and do not reveal the true nature of the dispute that has arisen by and among the parties.

4. ENDONOVO is a publicly traded over the counter biotechnology company, (ENDV.QB) developing bioelectronic devices and therapies for regenerative medicine. ENDONOVO's Immunotronics™ platform is a non-invasive, non-implantable bioelectronic device for treating/preventing vital organ failure through the reduction of inflammation, cell death and the promotion of regeneration. ENDONOVO's Cytotronics™ platform provides for a method of expanding and manipulating cells using simulated microgravity and Time-Varying Electromagnetic Fields (TVEMF) for tissue engineering and cell therapies. The Company's initial concentration is on the treatment of acute and chronic inflammatory conditions of the liver using its proprietary Immunotronics™ platform.

5. First and foremost, ENDONOVO is an emerging growth company with a great future that enjoys growing investor confidence. The allegations that the Company is unable to respond to a monetary award against it as claimed and asserted by Plaintiff are false and erroneous, despite what Plaintiff's cursory review of an SEC filing state. Most of the items of Accrued Expenses on our Balance Sheet, as reported, is for accrued salaries to myself and other key principals, deliberately deferred to enable the Company to grow. In fact, if need be, ENDONOVO could pay off these notes if there was a reasonable interest charge instead of the criminal usury amounts sought by Plaintiff. Further, ENDONOVO could easily respond to any monetary award obtained against us. Moreover, whatever ENDONOVO's present financial condition, it is no worse and in fact is better than it was at the time the loans were made to ENDONOVO by Plaintiff. Thus, this specious claim, in and of itself, for equitable relief is totally improper, as the basis is based only upon an alleged snapshot of ENDONOVO's financial condition, not our actual abilities to perform such obligations as a court may eventually determine that we might actually have under law. Any damages that Plaintiff might suffer are monetary damages and adequate remedies are available at law. Thus, their claim for this drastic equitable relief should be denied on this ground alone.

6. Further, this action is brought in the name of a company by an individual who has been charged less than three years ago by the Securities and Exchange Commission for his previous violations of the Federal Securities laws. See attached Exhibit "A". Mr. Curt Kramer merely has started a new company and continues to engage in the same conduct, now utilizing the Plaintiff, with Defendant ENDONOVO, all to which we intend to seek redress there against upon the filing of our counter-claim herein. Once a "bad actor", as defined by the SEC, always a "bad actor."

7. This action has been brought by Plaintiff after I discovered that the subject Note is criminally usurious and ENDONOVO would be conspiring with this lender Plaintiff, engaging in such egregious conduct. I, as CEO, on behalf of all our shareholders, thusly advised the Plaintiff that I refused to direct the Company to engage accordingly. I sent Mr. Kramer the email that follows on January 25, 2016:

Seth and Curt,

This conversion creates a usurious transaction. My company cannot be part of such a conspiracy against the shareholders and other debt holders of Endonovo and as such I have to deny your request.

The highest interest rate for this type of transaction in the state of New York is 16% per annum. The amount of shares you requested in the conversion notice dated 1/21/16 far exceeds the allowable interest rate. 95,663 shares from $15,000 is $29,657, 197%!

You are requesting that I sign a resolution approving this transaction. Your request is denied. We will not be part of such a conspiracy and we reserve all legal rights to object to this.

Upon you providing us with irrefutable documentation that shows you are legally allowed to obtain such a high interest rate on this debenture according to the laws of New York and I will sign the corporate resolution approving the conversion.

Nothing herein contained shall waive any rights or defenses should any litigation arise from this action on the part of the sender, and nothing in this letter shall be construed to prevent it from being admitted in a court of law in any legal proceeding or construed as a settlement document.

Sincerely,

Alan

His answer to my statement of law and principal is this lawsuit.

8. Although the subject Notes state an interest rate of 8%, that stated interest is irrelevant. The borrower, in this case ENDONOVO, must pay prepayment penalties several times the stated interest which exceed the 25% criminal usury limitations of the laws of the State of New York, and thus, this Note is void and/or voidable and cannot be enforced. If the Note is not prepaid, there is an attempt to convert the Note under terms guaranteed to result in even greater returns to Plaintiff. Despite my advice to Plaintiff that the Notes were criminally usurious, Plaintiff has brought the subject action and seeks to benefit from such criminal usury. These were and are high interest rate loans that are governed and prohibited by New York General Obligations Laws Sections 5-501, et seq., and the New York Banking Law Section 14-a, to which Plaintiff can even be criminally prosecuted under Penal Code 190.40 et. seq.

9. Most importantly herein, the subject Notes alleged to be the basis of the claims by Plaintiff are NOT even due yet. The first note upon which they seek relief is not due until April, 2016, and the second one is not due until May, 2016. Thus, this claim by Plaintiff is not right for adjudication and should be dismissed.

10. Even more egregious, is the illusory nature of these Notes. While a specific payment due date is set forth, the Plaintiff Holder seeks to defeat the Borrower Company's right to pay its obligation when due by demanding a conversion to be paid off prior thereto, which directly contradicts the right of the Borrower to timely pay off the Note.

11. Further, I have learned that Plaintiff Lender filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a Schedule 13G, on October 15, 2015 claiming it now owned approximately 10% of the outstanding and issued shares of the Company. This is patently and absolutely false. Our stock currently trades at greater than $0.55 and Plaintiff would need to convert its $66,000 of Notes into 11,000,000 or more shares to be a 10% shareholder, a conversion price of well under $0.01. We communicated to them to make an amendment to the 13G grossly misleading filing and they refused to make any meaningful changes and despite indications they would file an amendment making some clarifications they did not. They have filed a Schedule 13G as a deliberate attempt to drive the stock price down. Undoubtedly a reason for their filing a Schedule 13G was that the perception in the market that if Plaintiff is involved in a company it will inevitably drive the price of the stock down and allows them to demand more shares for their loan repayment through conversion, all usurious and all with the intent to cause harm and damage to ENDONOVO and its shareholders. In fact, though they claim to be an "institutional lender" as set forth in the Securities Purchase Agreement, they are more pirates than an institutional lender, and now, by such a public and false filing, are causing great harm to the value of the shares of the Company and to the Company itself. Plaintiff is viewed as a "toxic lender." Its boast that they now own 10% of ENODONOVO has made investors wary of our Company, we believe many of whom are refusing to further invest with us because of the involvement of such a company as Plaintiff. I am informed and believe and thereon state that our shares have been damaged so significantly by such a filing, a claim of affiliation through ownership by a known bad actor, as to cause the shares to lose its value in excess of $10 Million. See Exhibit "B", the Schedule 13G filing and Exhibit "C" the recent research report.

12. As a result, ENDONOVO has meritorious defenses to its alleged non-performance and breach of the Agreement, and will, when due, be filing significant Counter-Claims against Plaintiff, and certain of its employees, for Rescission Based Upon Fraud and Usury, Fraud, Breach of Written Agreement, and for Declaratory Relief.

Such defenses and counter-claims are based upon the predatory lending practices in which Plaintiff engages with the Company and like companies on the Over The Counter Stock (:OTC") Exchange. Their scheme is simple: The stock is acquired by the fraud of the Lender repeatedly soliciting us and posing as friendly partner of company with attention to destroy the company's stock through a price substantially at a discount to market. Thereafter, Plaintiff Lender sells the stock shares, making a substantial profit through repeated conversion at ever lower prices and effectively flooding the market with the stock shares and driving the price down to a worthless value. I am informed and believe, and hereon state, that this Plaintiff Lender further sells its stock overseas and to others without first registering the stock, all in violation of the rules of the SEC and the required registration of the sale of stock as demonstrated in the previous violations with FINRA and the SEC.

13. ENDONOVO has informed Clear Trust LLC not to honor the demand of the Plaintiff to issue VVG any common stock pursuant to the Agreements.

14. Lastly, I respectfully maintain that at all times I have acted within the course and scope of my duties as CEO of the Company with the best interests of its shareholders first and foremost, and that the mere allegations against me of purported alter-ego are false and not substantiated, subject to my Motion to Dismiss any such claims against me personally, obviously brought against me to tarnish my reputation should be disregarded.

WHEREFORE, Defendants respectfully submit that Plaintiff cannot show irreparable harm, as it can recover monetary damages for the alleged breach of the Agreement, Plaintiff does not have a likelihood probability of success as the notes are criminally usurious, on their face, and, as well are not yet past due, thus this matter is not ripe for adjudication, and the balance of the equities is in favor of Defendants due to the egregious conduct, all as hereinabove stated, and

Based upon the foregoing, Defendants respectfully submit and duly pray that the application for a temporary restraining order be denied, and no Order to Show Cause re: Preliminary Injunction be issued, until a final determination on the merits at trial may be had, and why Defendants should not have such other and further relief as the Court may deem just, proper, and equitable.

Penny Stock Financier Agrees to Pay $1.4 Million to Settle SEC Charges

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

2013-249

Washington D.C., Nov. 25, 2013 — The Securities and Exchange Commission today charged a New York-based penny stock financier and his firms with violating the federal securities laws when they purchased billions of shares in a pair of microcap companies and failed to register them before they were re-sold to investors for sizeable profits.

Curt Kramer and his firms Mazuma Corporation, Mazuma Funding Corporation, and Mazuma Holding Corporation agreed to disgorge those profits in paying a total of $1.4 million to settle the SEC's charges.

An SEC investigation found that Kramer and his firms obtained unregistered shares in penny stock issuers Laidlaw Energy Group and Bederra Corporation. For the Laidlaw transactions, they claimed to rely on an exemption in Rule 504 of Regulation D that permits certain companies to offer and sell up to $1 million in unregistered shares. However, the Mazuma firms' purchases of Laidlaw shares exceeded Rule 504's $1 million limit, so the shares were restricted and not exempt from the registration requirements of the securities laws when they were re-sold. Mazuma Holding Corporation's acquisition and sale of more than one billion unregistered shares of Bederra that had been misappropriated from the issuer by its transfer agent also were not exempt from registration.

"Unless there is a valid exemption, shares can't be sold publicly without a registration statement that provides investors with the level of detail they deserve about the investment opportunity being offered," said Michael Paley, co-chair of the SEC Enforcement Division's Microcap Fraud Task Force that was created earlier this year to target abusive trading and fraudulent conduct in securities issued by microcap companies that often don't regularly report their financial results publicly.

"Billions of shares were not vetted through the registration process yet became publicly traded as a result of the violations by Kramer and his Mazuma firms, and the SEC will continue to punish non-compliance with the registration provisions of the securities laws to ensure the investing public is protected in these types of transactions," Mr. Paley added.

According to the SEC's order instituting settled administrative proceedings, Kramer and his firms purchased two billion Laidlaw shares, which amounted to 80 percent of Laidlaw's outstanding shares at the time. They purchased these shares at a significant discount from prevailing market prices, making it highly likely they could immediately re-sell them publicly for a short-term profit. Kramer and his firms purchased the shares in 35 tranches with no six-month gaps, thus quantifying the transactions as a single, integrated offering through which Laidlaw exceeded the $1 million limit under Rule 504 by raising a total of $1,259,550. No registration statement was filed for any shares that Laidlaw offered and sold to Kramer and his firms, nor was any registration statement filed for any shares that Kramer and his firms subsequently re-sold into the public market. Despite exceeding the $1 million limit, Kramer and his firms continued to acquire and sell additional Laidlaw shares and profited by $126,963 from these transactions.

According to the SEC's order, Kramer and Mazuma Holding Corporation acquired more than one billion shares of Bederra in 2009 and 2010 through 21 separate transactions from the principal of Bederra's transfer agent, who had misappropriated the Bederra share certificates. Again they purchased the shares at a significant discount from prevailing market prices. Kramer and Mazuma Holding Corporation re-sold the misappropriated Bederra shares to the public without any registration statement for a profit of $934,404.

In the settlement, Kramer and his Great Neck, N.Y.-based Mazuma firms agreed to pay disgorgement totaling $1,061,367 plus prejudgment interest of $128,611 and penalties totaling $273,000. Without admitting or denying the SEC's findings, Kramer and Mazuma consented to the entry of an order finding that they violated Sections 5(a) and 5(c) of the Securities Act of 1933. The order requires them to cease and desist from committing violations of Sections 5(a) and 5(c) and not participate in any Rule 504 offerings. Entry of the order will constitute a disqualifying event for Kramer and the Mazuma firms under the recently enacted bad actor disqualification provisions of Rule 506.

The SEC's investigation was conducted by staff in the New York and Denver offices, including Ian Karpel, Kim Greer, Haimavathi Marlier, Laura Yeu, Todd Brody, Christopher Ferrante, and Elzbieta Wraga with assistance from exam staff Terrence Bohan and Denis Koval.
